Use this diagram to help you determine whether a food worker should be restricted or excluded from food handling at your facility.

Has the food worker been diagnosed with a specific pathogen infection?

- YES
  - Was the food worker diagnosed with an infection from Norovirus, Shigella, E. coli, or nontyphoidal Salmonella?
    - YES
      - Report the illness to the regulatory authority. Does the food worker have symptoms of vomiting or diarrhea?
        - YES
          - Exclude the worker from the facility.
        - NO
          - Restrict the worker from food preparation and working with food-contact surfaces.
    - NO
      - Report the illness to the regulatory authority and exclude the worker from the facility.
  - NO

- NO
  - Was the food worker diagnosed with an infection from Hepatitis A or Salmonella Typhi?
    - NO
      - Was the food worker diagnosed with an infection from Norovirus, Shigella, E. coli, or nontyphoidal Salmonella?
        - YES
          - Report the illness to the regulatory authority. Does the food worker have symptoms of vomiting or diarrhea?
        - NO
          - Restrict the worker from food preparation and working with food-contact surfaces.
    - YES
      - Does the food worker have vomiting or diarrhea?
        - YES
          - Exclude the worker from the facility.
        - NO
          - Does the food worker have a sore throat with a fever?
            - YES
              - Bandage and cover the wound appropriately.
            - NO
              - Does the food worker have an infected wound or boil that is open or draining?
                - YES
                  - Exclude the worker from the facility.
                - NO
                  - Does the food worker have jaundice?
                    - YES
                      - Exclude the worker from the facility.
                    - NO
                      - Allow regular work.