Based on all of the latest scientific research on the COVID-19, Coronavirus we will need to continue to exercise social distancing of at least 6’ without a barrier in between us in all social and retail environments well into the near future. Most of the preliminary estimates are that restaurants will have to operate at or below 50% to achieve the necessary social distancing requirements. This mandate will be especially challenging for most restaurants that need to operate at near full capacity to turn a profit to stay in business.

Based on this foreseen challenge Super Color Digital has developed Social Distancing Table & Booth Barriers.
